NINETY SOLDIERS ARE ENTERTAINED

Boys From Walter Reed Hospital Guests at Christ Church

AFFAIR IS ENJOYED

Addressed by Rev. Dr. W. J. Morton. —Miss Cummings' Class Host to Heroes.— Luncheon Served.

Under the auspices of Miss Cummings' class at Christ Church a most enjoyable scene was witnessed yesterday in the old historic building and the church yard, when ninety soldiers from the Walter Reed Hospital were entertained.

This class numbers sixteen members and is largly composed of the returned oversea soldiers, whom their own home town has been honoring during the past week, and for whose sake the chuch and church yard has been kept open every Sunday afternoon for the enjoyment of other boys in uniform, and it was the wounded soldiers their comrades in arms, that this class entertained yesterday.

When the appeal for automobiles was made by Clyde C. Lamond, he met with a hearty and instantaneous response and over forty were gladly offered for the occasion

At 2 'clock they assembled at the Chamber of Commerce for the Walter Reed Hospital and brought the boys back, taking them first to the Masonic Hall where they were seated and given an address of welcome by W. B. Davis, worshipful master of the lodge. He then turned them over to the custodian, G. W. Zachary, who gave them a detailed account of the relics there contained.

The soldiers were then brought to Christ hurch where a few hymns were sung by the choir, a few prayers offered by Rev W. J. Morton and a short sketch given by him of the historic points of this—the soldiers' church.

Afterward the boys seated themselves on the benches in the yard and were served a most delightful supper.

Many ladies had eagerly offered to assist and Miss Cochran gave her expert services.

Contributions of money, food, ice candy and tobacco had been very liberally donated by the merchants and others, for the opportunity to give pleasure to the Water Reed boys was gladly accepted.

It happened that two of our own Alexandria boys were among the wounded and their delight can better be imagined than described.

The officer in charge said this kind of Sunday entertainment had never before been given the boys, only baseball and amusement of that nature.

One of the gentlemen who took the boys back again said three boys asked him to leave them at a church in Washington, as they had not been in a church for two years and the services at Christ Church had awakened old memories and old desires. So in every sense it was a day well spent, and most sincere thanks are offered each and all who contributed to its success.

DINNER GIVEN FATHER PAYNE

Hot Springs, Va., —Sunday evening, May 25th, a very delightful and charming dinner was given to the Rev W. Gaston Payne, of Clifton Forge, by a number of his friends in Hot Springs in honor of his birthday. The affair, which was very much a surprise to Father Payne was given in recognition also of 18 years of uninterrupted pstoral work in Hot Springs and it was given by friends irrespective of creed. Father Payne, who is one of the Paynes of Warrenton, one of the oldest and most noted families in Virginia, and it also might be mantioned, one of the most charming and delightful gentlemen anywhere, is a genuine raconteur and during the evening told some of his inimitable stories. He was specially happy in responding to the presentation of a handsome traveling bag. A happy little event it was, quite one of the charming things between friends that make life what it should be. The decorations were rhododendrums and were quite lovely. He is a brother of Mrs. T. Marshall Jones of this city.

STRUCK BY A SOLDIER

Civilian Who Would Not Submit to Arrest is Handled Roughly

While the streets were packed with people Saturday night the sudden exit of a man through a window, carrying the glass with him, on King street, near St. Asaph, caused some excitement. It was said that the man was thrown out of the place. No one seemed to know what precipitated the trouble.

Later on Patrick street, near King, an excited dispute took place between a man and a member of the military police. The latter insisted that he had the power to make arrests in any cases of disorderly conduct, and that his duties were not confined to soldiers. His antagonist disputed this, and the soldier finally attempte to arrest the man. The latter ran, when the member of the military police discharged his pistol several times—in the air, he says. The fugitive ran into King street, where he tripped and fell. The soldier was upon him in an instant, and while the man was prostrate he struck him on the head with his pistol.

The man who was assaulted declined to appear in the Police Court and left the city this morning The soldier was on hand with several of his companions, together with his superior officers.

As the injured party was not present, it was difficult to go into an investigation of the case. The court, however deemed it a proper occasion to say to the soldiers and those with him that the city appreciated the services of the military police during the past two years, they having been of material aid to our city officers. The court let it be known that the soldiers have equal powers with the city officers, but that in performing their duties the sons of Mars were reminded that they should not imitate Cossacks, that discharging a pistol in the streets especially when they are crowded is an action of trespass against the community, and that assaulting a prostrate man with the butt of a pistol is a felony.

The soldier said he did not assault the man until he had applied an insolent epithet to him. The court called the soldiers' attention to the fact that policemen often have hard names applied to them. Cuss words have been coined for all in authority from the Mayor down to the most courteous policemen, and in performing their justly appreciated services members of the military force while acting as policemen should let patience have her perfect words and pay no attention to unconventional language upon the part of prisoners, especially when it is shown the latter have been drinking.

U. S. TROOPS TAKE JUAREZ

Crossing Follows Mexican Firing Into El Paso

El Paso, Texas, June 16.—United States troops are today in full possession of the city of Juarez, Mexico.

American cavalrymen are searching the territory south and east of the city for Villista soldiers.

Juarez was quiet when the Yankees entered. A few huddled forms lay in the streets.

America's sudden invasion of Mexican territory, for the first time since the occupation of Vera Cruz, began last night, when thirty-six hundred American soldiers crossed the border to disperse the forces of General Villa.

The purpose of the excursion into Juarez was to prevent further firing into El Paso by the Mexican factions.

Unconfirmed reports were received at police headquarters that two persons had been killed on American soil Sunday by shots fired during the fighting between Federals and Villistas across the river.

CARNIVAL FOLDS ITS TENTS

The street carnival which had been exhibiting on the streets of Alexandria last week vanished some time between midnight Saturday and yesterday morning, but another was following close in its wake. Tents for the exhibition were being placed in position early this morning, not upon the streets, however, but upon what a few years ago the outskirts of Alexandria.

Scenes on King street Saturday were more animating than on any occasion for years. The streets were literally packed with people and the scenes were akin to those in Rome half a century ago at the close of the Lenten season. Young and old mingled, generally in the best of humor, and there were but few occurrences savoring of disorderly conduct. A member of the military police who had had an excited colloquy with a man attempted to arrest his antagonist, and the latter running the soldier fired his pistol—he says in the air—and the fugitive stumbling and falling his pursuer overtook him and struck him on the head with the butt of his pistol. The man who was assaulted refused to appear in the Police Court this morning.

Considering the large number of persons on the streets every night last week, the authorities are to be commended for keeping down disorder. Nothing in the nature of a row occurred except the incident described above.

The pacific conditions were due to the precautions taken by the police force. They were greatly assisted by the members of the military police, the latter mingling with the crowds and nipping in the bud anything likely to result in disorder.

FRIDAY'S METEOR

The brilliant meteor which passed over Alexandria Friday evening plunged into Tangier Sound, about one hundred miles south of this city. The meteor changed its course as it neared Point Lookout and crossed the Chesapeake, but falling into the sound before reaching the Maryland shore.

A Crisfield, Md., correspondent sends a very circumstantial story of the landing of a meteor near that town—a very much disheveled and discomfited meteor, according to him, for it landed in four sections, showing that it must have had a meteoric career getting down that way. He says that one part, and the largest, struck below Deals Island in six fathoms of water and then riocheted 20 feet above the surface; another struck in a marsh in the city limits of Crisfield; another struck near Smith's Island and another near Tangier. So far as is known, no specimen of the meteoric body was recovered.

THE SOCIAL UNREST

The restlessness throughout the world, running into Bolshevism, is a menace the magnitude of which cannot be overstated. It would be a vain delusion to imagine that this Bolshevistic tendency cannot make headway in America. It can do so and is doing so. The agitators of the doctrine of hate who are stirring up the people everywhere must be met by the most tremendous effort of those who see the danger. Business men, preachers and teachers need to realize their responsibility and to do all in their power to educate the public to the danger of this socialistic upheaval. President Wilson in this emergency has an opportunity such as that possessed by no other man. His responsibility to help to allay this unrest is as great as his opportunity.

The Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore, makes practicable suggestions concerning present conditions. Among other things it says, "unfortunately for this nation, the carpet-baggers who flooded the South after the Civil war and misled the negroes and made them distrust and eventually hate the white people are typified by unscrupulous labor agitators and politicians who seek to arouse class hatred in order to ride into power on the spirit of evil let loose. The politician, high or low, who panders to the labor vote by stirring up the passions of hatred and lauds to the skies the so-called workingmen (when all honest men are workingmen, whether they work with their brain or their barwn) is on a par with the worst of the disreputable carpet-baggers who came near to wrecking the Anglo-Saxon civilization of the South. These scoundrels, who cared nothing whatever for the negro except for what use they could make of him, sowed the seeds of evil in the minds of 4,000,000 negroes just out of slavery, the harvest from which both races have been reaping ever since. The politicians who stir up the so-called labor element and who give countenance to the rank socialistic trend of the times are doing their utmost to bring forth a harvest of Bolshevism and anarchy. These men are sowing the seeds of hatred and the world will reap a harvest of sorrow and death from their work."

SENATOR MARTIN IMPROVES.

Secretary Expects Him to Resume Duties Here Before Long

Alarming rumors concerning the condition of Senator Thomas S. Martin, of Virginia, minority leader of the Senate, were emphatically denied yesterday by his secretary, F. J. Merkling.

"I saw Senator Martin several days ago and also heard from the University Hospital, where he is now taking the rest cure," said Mr. Merkling. "He is getting along splendidly, and I am confident it will not be many weeks before he will be able to resume his duties in Washington."

DEFENDANT COMPANY WINS

Prince George Jury Decides Against $20,000 Claim of Hopewell Man for Injuries

Petersburg, Va., June 16.—In the Circuit Court of Prince George Co., Wednesday, Judge Mullen, of this city, sitting for Judge West, the damage suit of W. T. Meanley, of Hopewell, against the Petersburg-Hopewell-City Point Railway Company, was brought to trial, which resulted in a verdict for the defendant company. Meanley sued for $20,000 damages for injuries to his person, caused by being struck by a car at Hopewell on April 19 of this year. His hip was broken. The defense proved that the plaintiff was injured at a danger point on the railway, where danger signals were displayed, with warnings against trespassing on the company's property at the particular point when the injury was suffered. Mr. Meanley was, therefore, held to be a trespasser.

REO

"Speed Wagon" The Pioneer
Still the Leader

As you who have read Reo literature for a decade past, know, we are not given to extravagant use of superlatives, nor to affixing the Reo signature to exaggerated statements. We do feel, however, that we are justified in reminding you that Reo was the pioneer in a development that has wrought a tremendous revolution in the motor truck business, in the design, construction and in the utilization of the motor vehicle in countless lines of industry and trade.

This was the development of the medium size motor truck which we named the "Speed-Wagon" because it was capable of speeds greater than those at which trucks were previously considered practical.

This greater speed was due to two departures from former practices; first an higher gear ratio, and second, mounting on pneumatic tires. Reo engineering is, at the same time, the most conservative and the most progressive. To put it another way, we aim to be progressively conservative.

Having built trucks for many years; having accumulated a wealth of experience at a time when others were just beginning; we conceived the idea that a truck capable of twice the speed would not only carry as great a load in two trips as one twice the capacity, but that the life of such a truck, if mounted on pneumatic tires, would be nearly twice that of the one mounted on solid tires.

Of course the greater speed necessarily implied pneumatics.

The old time truck—and the greater majority of those still built—is mounted on solid tires, and so is incapable of speeds greater than ten to twelve miles an hour without great deterioration.

May we demonstrate this truck to you.

Make Whiskey Main Inrustry in Southwestern Virginia.

Nashville, Tenn., June 16.—Moonshiners make whiskey in everything from an orthodox copper "still" of 200 gallons capacity down to a coffee pot.

It's ridiculously easy to make and the outfit is so cheap that it's "within the reach of all."

Mountaineer moonshiners used to do farming—as a sort of a sideline. Now most of them never stick a plow into the ground. A few raise the corn they need for their whisky operations. They feed the "still slop"—the residue from the cornmeal mash after the whisky is extracted—to their hogs. The hogs provide food for the family.

These are the desperate men Uncle Sam's revenue agents have been fighting for generations. They made whiskey illicitly when the government tax was only 1.10 a gallon. Now the tax is 6.40 a gallon and its manufacture is prohibited. The increased tax gave a great impetus to the moonshine industry. And a greater impetus was given by the dry laws.

Under such "splendid" conditions a moonshiner finds that he's wasting his time growing corn. He can buy it cheaply. He doesn't even have to grind it into corn meal.

Almost any makeshift will do if a copper still is lacking. Moonshiners use old gasoline tanks, automobile radiators and even 50-cent lard tins. Where copper is scarce and expensive, moonshiners sometimes make their stills of galvanized iron, of a curved end shape that gives it the name of a "submarine."

The moonshiner seldom lets his product get "cold." Whisky improves with age, but the demand is so great and the business of making so dangerous that it isn't safe to keep it around very long.

Man are taking chances now, hoping for maximum prices after July 1, and have hundreds of gallons buried in the mountains. But when it's marketed it will be just as "green" as the quickly sold product.

Dodson, Va., June 16.Making blockade whisky is the principal industry of the southwestern part of Virginia.

Almost every man in this section either is or has been a moonshiner.

The country is so mountainous and the soil so poor that there is very little farming. Wheat and corn are practically the only crops grown. The wheat makes bread; the corn makes moonshine whisky.

This spot on the map is conspicuous only for a general store which has attained the dignity of a fourth class postoffice. The store and the house where its owner lives are the only buildings in "town."

position of their union and their right to collective bargaining.

Atlantic City. June 16.—Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, announced to national convention delegates here last night that Postmaster-General Burleson had promised to give orders which would result in conferences between representatives of the striking commercial telegraphers of the Western Union and Postal Companies and representatives of the companies.

At these conferences, he said, machinery for "settling difficulties" would be arranged.

Chicago, June 16.Although the strike of electrical workers scheduled for today throughout the country was called off following orders issued by Postmaster-General Burleson granting telephone employes the right to bargain with their employers and to organize, and the telegraph companies believed the nation-wide strike of commercial operators had failed, S. J. Konekamp, international president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, tonight prepared to appeal to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor for aid.

Nearly 25,000 telegraph employes were on strike, Mr. Konenkamp said but Mr. Burleson had made one policy for the telephone employes and refused to grant the telegraph operators the same benefits.

REDS RIOT AT ZURICH

Demonstration Follows Arrest of Union Secretary.

Paris, June 16.—Serious anarchist and Bolshevik disorders broke out in Zurich, Switzerland last week.

According to advices received here yesterday morning the local workmen's Union of Zurich, which has a number of Extremist members, was holding a meeting in memory of Rosa Luxemburg, the German Radical leader, who was killed following her arrest in Berlin early in the year, when the news was circulated that the secretary of the union. Conrad Wyss, had been arrested on Wednesday.

A furious crowd marched on the prefecture, stoned the windows, broke down solid doors and after a half hour of battering looted the Hall of Justice and burned the archives in the principal corridor of the building. One of the guards fired on the crowds, his shots being answered.

A number of casualties are reported, but details are lacking, as telephone and telegraph lines appeared to have been tampered with.

There are large foreign colonies of anarchists. Bolsheviki and revolutionaries in Zurich.

Berne, Switzerland, June 16.—The casualties in the disturbances at Zurich are given officially at 2 persons killed and 17 wounded. One policeman was mortally hurt.

Among the rioters were many German anarchists and communists.

WIRE STRIKE TO WILSON

Telegraphers Will Ask President To Settle Dispute.

New York, June 16.—President Wilson will be asked to intervene in the strike of the commercial telegraphers of the Western Union and Postal systems. Percy Thomas, vice-president of the union, told a mass-meeting of the strikers yesterday. Mr. Thomas announced that he would go to Atlantic City early this week to ask the aid of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in bringing the strikers' claims before the President.

He maintained that recognition of the Electrical Workers' Union by Postmaster-General Burleson left Mr. Burleson no alternative but to extend the same recognition to the commercial telegraphers. Mr. Thomas said he would ask the executive council to lay the facts before President Wilson and he felt confident that the President would recognize the justice of the telegraphers' demand for recog-

SEEKING DIVORCES

British Lords and Ladies Making New Record for Separation

London, June 16.—Among the suits which come up for a hearing at the next session of the divorce court, beginning June 17, is that of the Duchess of Westminster against her husband.

Other cases are those of the Marchioness of Conyngham against the Marquis of Conyngham and the Baroness Kenyon against the fourth Baron Kenyon, who are petitioning for a restitution of conjugal rights, which is preliminary to an application for divorce.

Another case is that of Dsphne R. Bligh, commonly known as Lady Clifton, for a divorce from Esme Ivo Bligh, commonly known as Lord Clifton and eldest son of the eighth earl of Darnley. The list of cases is one of the longest in the history of the court.

Hugh Richard Arthur Grosvenor, second Duke of Westminster, separated from his wife in 1913, his act causing a stir in English social circles. A separation agreement was signed in 1914. The Duke served in Egypt in 1915 and won the D. S. C. for bravery. The pair were married in 1901. The Duchess formerly was Constance Edwina, daughter of Col. William Cornwallis-West. She has two children.

The Marquis of Conygham is 29 years old and is the sixth of his line. His wife, whom he married in 1914, was formerly Miss Bessie Tobin, of Australia.

Baronness Kenyon formerly was Gladys Howard and married Lloyd Kenyon, fourth Baron Kenyon, in 1916. The Baron is a director in several railroads and was born in 1864. They have two children.

Lord and Lady Clifton were married in 1912. Lady Clifton formerly was Miss Daphne Rachel Mul-

Virginia Decision to Apply When Lines Are Restored

Richmond, Va., June 16.—Corporations chartered under the laws of this State and operating in various cities from a central plant, and having franchise rights containing clauses regarding rate for service, cannot raise such rates during the life of the franchise in those cities. This was the decision of the State Corporation Commission in the case of the Western Virginia Power Company against the towns of Covington, Clifton Forge, Buena Vista and Lexington, where power and light are furnished. Following this decision the Company appealed the case to the Supreme Court of the State, and that tribunal has upheld the decision of the Commission. The Commission took the ground that there was a contract between the Company and the towns, that the same power that made the contract could amend the same, but that no power or right was vested in the Commission to upset any contract that had been entered into by the parties to this litigation. It is expected that the State Corporation Commission will, when the telephone wires are restored to private control, insist that the provisions of the franchise for this city and State shall be restored.

"WETS" HOPEFUL

Believe President Will Revoke Wartime Prohibition Order

Washington, June 16.—The hope of "wets" that President Wilson will halt the operation of wartime prohibition before it becomes effective July 1 was heightened yesterday as the result of Saturday's labor demonstration at the Capital.

That the demonstration had little effect on Congress was generally admitted, it being the idea here that each member will continue to vote on the liquor question in a way he thinks will please the voters of his particular district.

The statements of Representative Rainey, of Illinois, and Sabath of the same State, were regarded as especially significant, since both men are among the strongest Administration supporters in the House. Both predicted that Wilson would act before July 1.

Meanwhile "drys" were preparing to set up a counter-protest in the form of petitions and telegrams from labor constituents back home in an attempt to show that yesterday's demonstration does not represent the true sentiments of labor.

TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT

Captain John Alcock and Lieut. A. W. Brown Make Run in About Sixteen Hours.

London, June 16.—The first successful non-top flight across the Atlantic ocean was completed yesterday morning by Capt. John Alcock, British Royal Air Service, and Lieut. Arthur W. Brown, an American in a Vickers-Vimy bombing biplane.

Capt. Alcock landed at Clifden, Ireland, at 8.0 o'clock, having covered approximately 1,980 miles in a little more than sixteen hours. He "hopped off" at St. Johns, Newfoundland, at 4.13 o'clock yesterday afternoon (Greenwich time, or New York time.)

By accomplishing the first trans-Atlantic airplane flight in history, Capt. Alcock and Lieut. Brown win the prize of $50,000 offered by the London Daily Mail.

Following a rather difficult landing at Clifden, when the plane's nose was buried far in the ground, Alcock sent a message to the Royal Aero Club here, asking for further instructions. In his message Alcock declared he had accomplished the flight in exactly sixteen hours and twenty-seven minutes.

Both flyers showed evidence of their hard and trying voyage but a triumphant smile overspread their countenances. A huge crowd gathered in a few minutes to glimpse the aviators who had performed the feat, in attempting which Harry Hawker and Mackenzie Grieve had only recently barely escaped with their lives.

GRAND THEATRE

In "Stella Maris," Mary Pickford's latest picture for Artcraft, now at the Grand Theatre tonight, she plays two roles, the sweet and appealing character of Stella Maris, and Unity Blake an uncouth figure. One of the big scenes in the photoplay shows the terrific beating Unity receives from the drink-sodden woman who has taken her from the orphan asylum. While Miss Camille Ankewich gives a splendid interpretation of the brutal woman, she is a woman of gentle disposition and dearly loves little Mary.

Also Wm. Duncan in "The Man of Might," 9th Episode.

Richmond Theatre—Wallace Reid.

The attraction at the Richmond Theatre tonight will be "You're Fired," Wallace Reid's latest Paramount success, which comes here direct from Washington, where it has been pronounced his best production.

INGOMAR THEATRE

At the Ingomar Theatre Episode 7 of "The Tigers Trail," will be shown, and as an extra attraction Lewis S. Stone in "The Man of Bronze," a western photoplay full of thrills, love and surprises will be shown.

The Ingomar will be closed the balance of the week.
